Relocation: A practical guide

Related outputs

Towards an inclusive workplace: Fostering a culture of authenticity, inclusiveness and well-being

Assessing risk and the role of trust: managing in a world of global uncertainty

Great expectations? Female expatriates' perceptions of organisational performance and development reviews in supporting access to international assignments

The implications of age diversity in multicultural team working

Employer branding – a relocation revolution

Millennials on the move

Female expatriates' motivations and challenges: the case of oil and gas
Supporting Ghanaian micro-entrepreneurships: The role of mobile technology

Women’s participation in organisationally-assigned expatriation: an assignment type effect?

What seals the deal? How compensation and benefits affect women’s decisions to accept expatriation in the oil and gas industry

Segmenting international assignments: theorising expatriate reward

International assignment reward policies: the importance of compensation and benefits to women's expatriate participation

The global mobility agenda: current trends and looking ahead

Group moves – managing strategic choices

Innovation – The relocation perspective

Family support – Policy implications for domestic and international moves

Group moves – Raising engagement in mergers, acquisitions and joint ventures

How assignment types affect women’s organisationally-assigned expatriation decisions

Mind the gap: Reality and expectations of the global mobility function

The intersection of mobility and talent – the role of gender diversity

Relocation policy design and review

Reality and expectations of the global mobility function

Managing talent: current issues

"Isn't it just all hard hats and remote rigs?" Women pursuing oil and gas exploration expatriate careers via rotational assignments

Employee pay preferences: transnational investigations drawing on postgraduate student data

Enhancing student outcomes through staff peer review of learning technologies
The Purpose of Expatriation: Why Women Undertake International Assignments

Extreme Expatriation: The Effect of Location Factors and Masculine Environments on Women's International Assignment Participation in Oil and Gas Exploration and Production

Long-term assignment reward (dis)satisfaction outcomes: hearing women's voices

Educating global citizens: exploring UK universities

Expatriate dual career strategies: making a contribution to theory and practice

The Russian connection: knowledge, know-how and networking

The ‘expat factor’: the influence of working time on women’s decisions to undertake international assignments in the oil and gas industry

Chair, ‘Expatriate Management and Global Mobility Forum 2014’

Global mobility: a changing landscape?

Assignment compensation: issues to consider in expatriate reward

If the cap fits? Challenging the image of women in masculine industries

Women Expatriates: A Research History

Role models: expatriate gender diversity pipeline or pipe-dream?

Networking

Trends in international relocation assignment types and remuneration strategies

Long-term assignments: the full package

Localisation policy and practice

Repatriation: managing career paths in uncertain times

The effect of work life balance on gender diversity in expatriation: issues, problems and organisational interventions
The Effects of Children’s Education and Supporting Organizational Policy and Practice on Corporate Expatriation

Women’s participation in expatriation: the contribution of organisational policy & practice. A case study of the oil & gas exploration & production sector

If the cap fits? Challenging the image of women in masculine industries

Partner work visas: a global change agenda?

Developing a global mindset

Top spots, hotspots and policy implications

Trends in international relocation policies

Dual careers: the impact of work-permit restrictions on international business

Flexpatiree assignments: trends and policy implications

Cost control versus support: striking the right balance

The role of performance management and development reviews in female expatriate participation in the oil and gas industry

Gender diversity in expatriation: relocation policy implications

Beyond expatriation: women’s creation of place in oil and gas gendered geographies

Women’s expatriate careers: a challenge to traditional career path models?

Rewarding performance in an international environment

The changing nature of international assignments

The changing nature of expatriate demographics

Emerging markets: tapping in to new talent

Are flexible policies the smart solution?

The ‘precondition effect’: The role of financial elements in relocation policy in supporting women’s expatriate participation in the oil and gas industry
Drilling through gender stereotypes: improving prospects for female expatriation in oil and gas exploration and production?

Theoretical Perspectives on Expatriate Gender Diversity
Shortland, S. 2011. Theoretical Perspectives on Expatriate Gender Diversity. in: Mariano, S., Mohamed, M. and Mohiuddin, Q. (ed.) The Role of Expatriates in MNCs Knowledge Mobilization Bingley Emerald. pp. 3-24

What do we really know about corporate career women expatriates?

Networking: a valuable career intervention for women expatriates?

Relocation policy development and review: trends and tips

Recent trends in international assignments

Managing relocation: the role of change and communications management

In the wake of the volcano

Latest trends in international relocation unpacked

Spousal employment: the impact on international relocation

The changing nature of assignees and assignment types

New government: all change for relocation?

An insight into the future of relocation

Women’s expatriate participation in oil and gas exploration and production

Networking: a valuable career intervention for women expatriates?

Feedback within peer observation: continuing professional development and unexpected consequences

Chair, ‘Winning Strategies in Relocation’

International dual careers: latest policy and practice

Mergers and acquisitions

Spouses partners and international assignments

International policy design and review
Winning strategies event showcases best practice

Cultural issues: dealing with subtle cultural differences

Alternative assignment types

Policy design in challenging times

What do we really know about corporate career women expatriates?

Gender diversity in expatriation: evaluating theoretical perspectives

Gender diversity in expatriation: evaluating theoretical perspectives

Chair, ‘Best Practice in Relocation’

Expatriates and work-life balance

Change in the international arena

Making sense of international experiences

What's hot in relocation?

Talent management: implications for relocation professionals

Calling relocation heroes!

Women and international assignments: Taking stock-a 25-year review

Managing internationally mobile personnel

Chair, ‘What’s Happening in International HR?’

Off-shoring: a cultural dilemma?

The new face of the trailing spouse

International reward and recognition: recent research findings

Role models, mentors, sponsors and networks: facilitators of international adjustment

Inspirational relocation!

Culture: a question of difference, dilemma or diversity?
Culture: a question of difference, dilemma or diversity?

Managing international assignments: ensuring a smoother ride

Work-life balance: expatriates reflect the international dimension

Conference and survey round-up: Autumn 2007

Women's participation in international mobility as expatriates: current trends and issues

Participation, justice and trust within developmental peer observation of teaching: a model and research agenda

Women's participation in international mobility

Chair, 'Managing Expatriates and Globally Mobile Employees'

Management development in an international context

Commuting: the alternative to relocation?

When mentoring matters most

Cream of the crop

Virtual working versus relocation

Clearing the mobility hurdles

Conference and survey round-up

The rise and rise of female expatriates

Dual career and family issues in domestic and international relocation

Women's participation in international mobility

Cultural awareness: an essential, not an add-on

Welcome returns

A moving experience
Prepared for abroad

Employer of choice: the relocation dimension

Women and international mobility: alien invader or superior assignee?

The impact of expatriation on spouses’ career paths

Work-life balance: the impact of policy and practice on the human resource function

The state we’re in

Appointing an A-Team

Think cross-cultural for international success

Supporting the partners

The role of peer observation in Continuing Professional Development (CPD)

International relocation policy design: key principles

Short-term assignments: the solution to global mobility?

Communication: the aim of the group move game

Women and international assignments: from the 1980s to the 21st century

Peer observation: a tool for staff development or compliance?

‘Observing Teaching in HE: A case study of classroom observation within peer observation

Student teacher collaborative reflection: perspectives on learning together

Learning through international experience

Managing international assignment stress

Women expatriates: a rare breed?

The impact of expatriation on spouses’ career paths

Observing teaching in HE: a case study of classroom observation within peer observation

The impact of culture on international assignments
Relocation: A Practical Guide offers practitioners and parents a comprehensive handbook on the law and practice which is needed to successfully handle any relocation dispute, whether it ends up in court or not. Written in an accessible style by a team of experienced specialists, Relocation: A Practical Guide explains the entire process of dealing with a relocation case. After a detailed discussion of both international and internal relocation law (including case examples and key summaries), the book moves step by step through the entire process of a case, from first discussions to final hearing.

A Woman’s Guide to Managing Men

International Relocation: A Global Perspective

Managing Relocation yourself, and if you don't feel like you are there yet, put a plan of action in place to get there with a time deadline on it.